The principles of the New Ways of Working

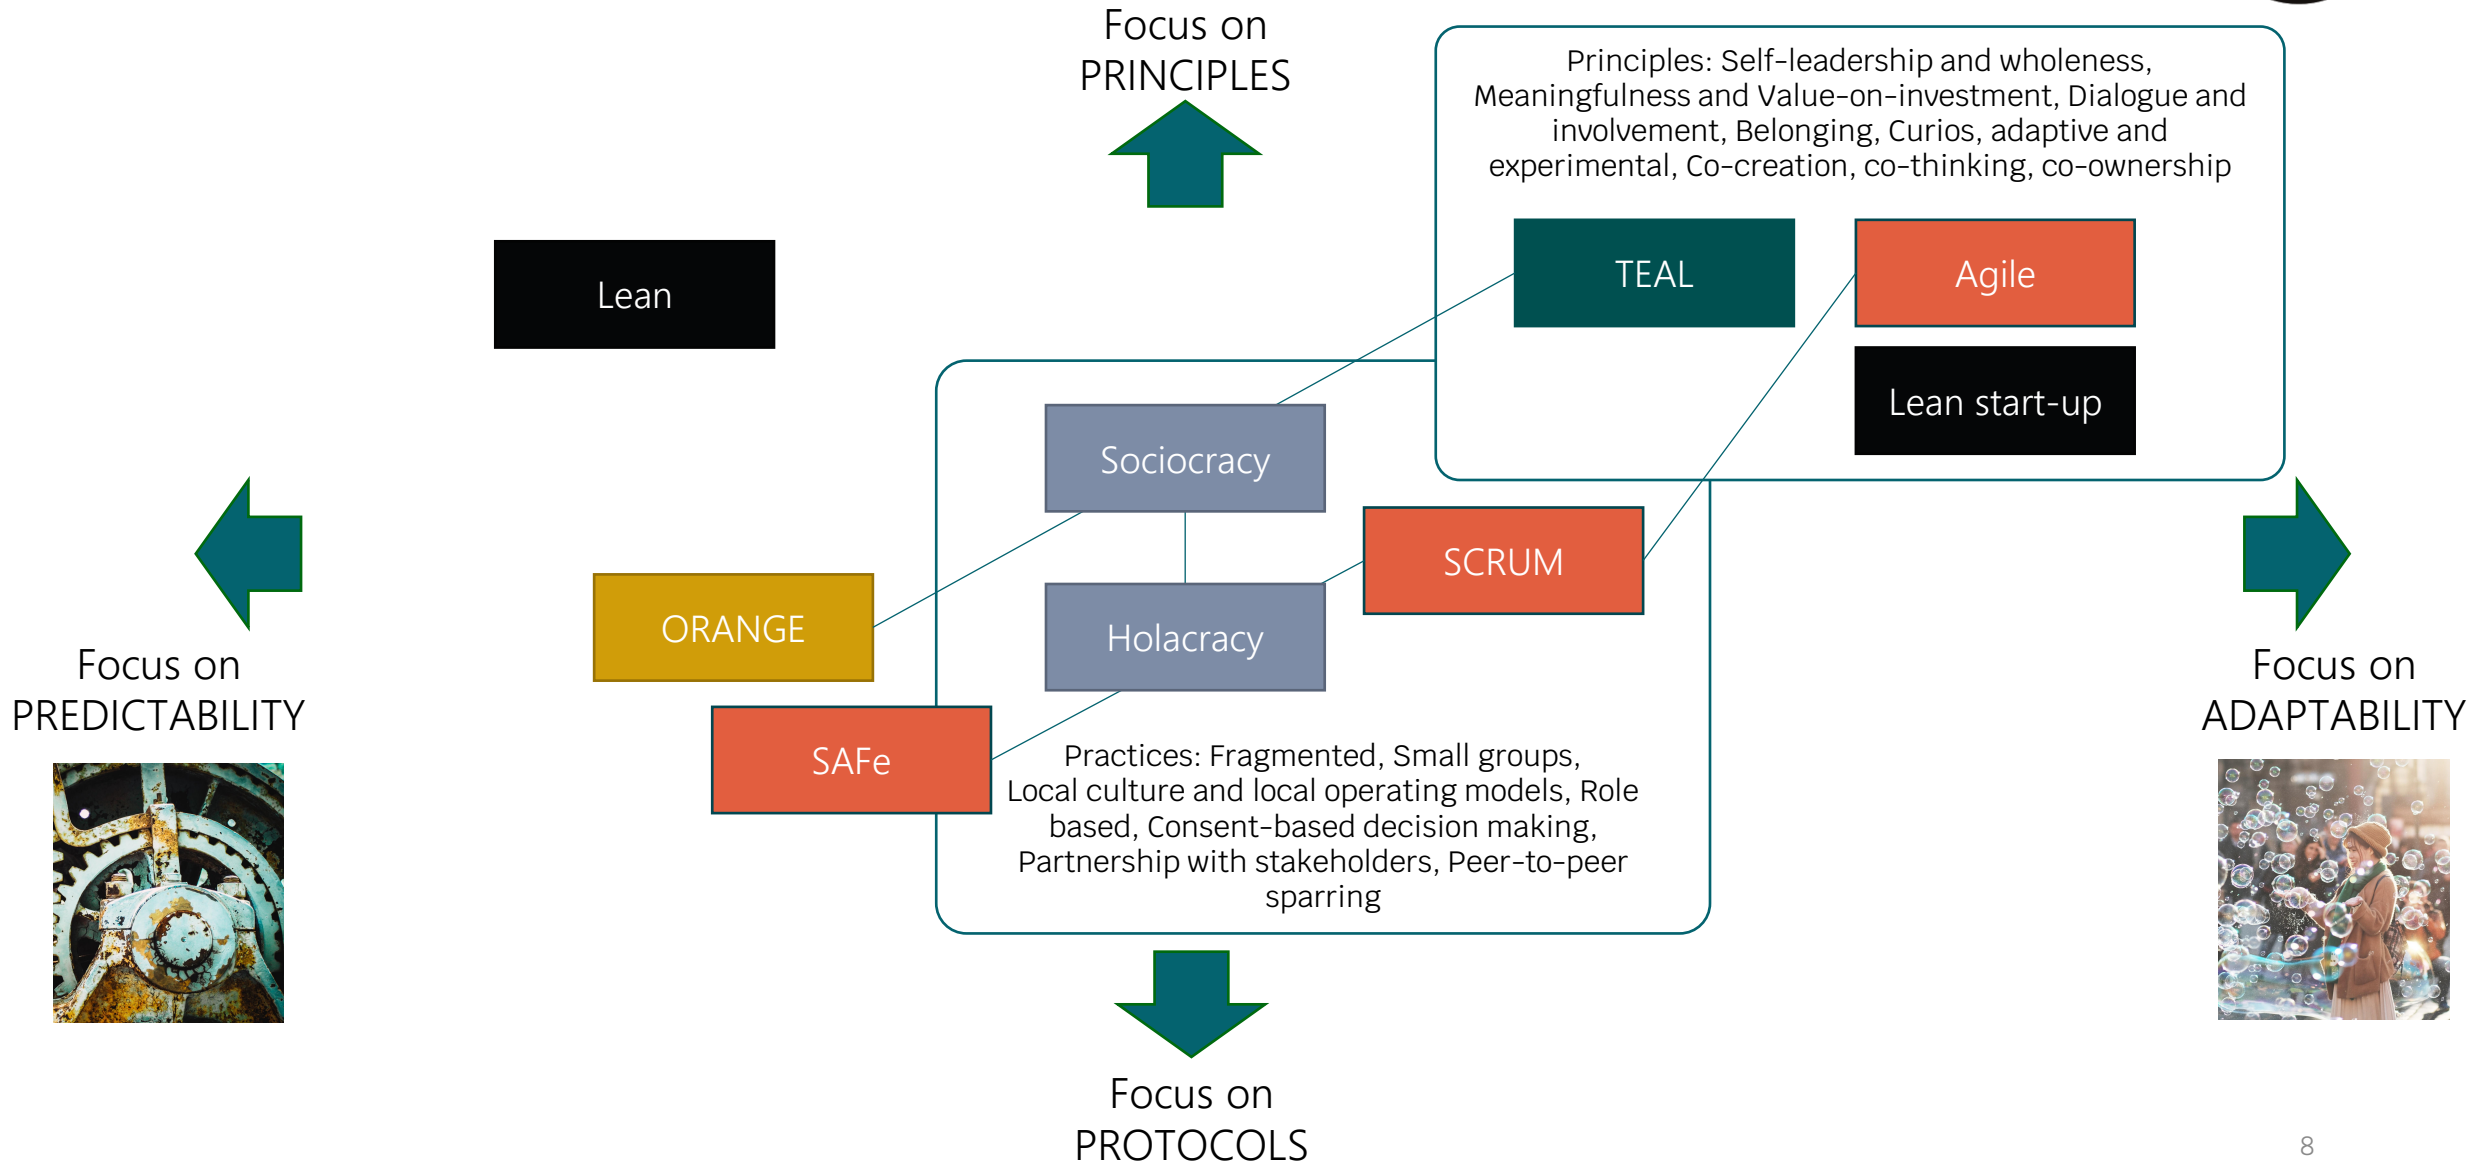

Principles

- Self-leadership and wholeness
- Meaningfulness and Value-on-investment
- Dialogue and involvement
- Belonging
- Curious, adaptive and experimental
- Co-creation, co-thinking, co-ownership

Practices

- Fragmented
- Small groups
- Local culture and local operating models
- Role based
- Consent-based decision making
- Partnership with stakeholders
- Peer-to-peer sparring

New Ways of Working – A map of mechanisms

A woman wearing a brown knit beanie, a green scarf, and a brown coat is blowing bubbles in a crowd. The scene is filled with many colorful, iridescent bubbles floating in the air. The background is slightly blurred, showing other people in the crowd. The overall atmosphere is bright and cheerful.

So ...

What do you think about that?

What questions does that create?

Leadership skills for the ecosystem

Micro-communities in enterprises

- Gone are homogeneous cultures. Instead, we encourage heterogeneous cultures.
- Micro-communities in the companies which have “cultural dialects”, their own slang, their own ways of working, their own budget, and which could almost be an independent company.
- A PATCHWORK OF DIFFERENT STYLES

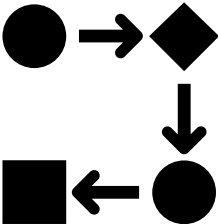

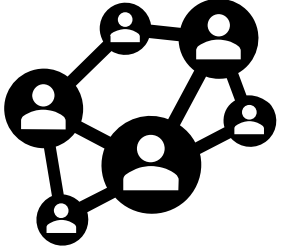

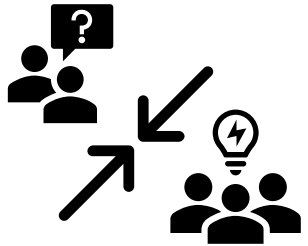

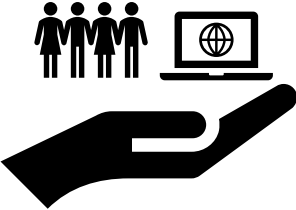

The ecosystem around micro-communities

Leadership skills for the ecosystem

Leading flow: Listening, transparency, dialogue, feedback loops 	Leading interactions: White Space mastery, rhythms, and networks 	Leading cross-boundary problem solving: Facilitating cross-pollination of skills, domains, people, and technologies, also across the organizational perimeter 	Leading organisms, mechanisms, and components: Situational leadership of teams, of intercompany mechanisms, and of highly personalized support for the individual employees

A woman wearing a brown knit beanie, a green scarf, and a brown coat is blowing bubbles. She is surrounded by a large number of iridescent bubbles that are floating in the air. The background is a blurred crowd of people, suggesting an outdoor event or festival. The lighting is bright and warm, creating a festive atmosphere.

So ...

What do you think about that?

What questions does
that create?

Designing and executing a transformation program
